Future Use

All our films are archived and should there be a need for clips for a funeral, for a reasonable additional fee, we will prepare up to 5 or so minutes of clips that can be played during the service. This not only gives a voice to the departed but also helps take the burden from the family members for preparing slideshows during the grieving period.

Speak to us also about leaving a personal legacy message (nonbinding/nonlegal, emotional, message that can be kept with the legal representative until after your passing).

Our Process

It's as easy as 1 - 2 - 3

1. First Meeting

- Have a relaxed chat to get to know you and your life story.
- Note necessary family details, names and anecdotes to bring up during the interview etc.
- Scout location (where and how we will film, what the light is like, noise, etc.)
- Look over photos or other relevant media that may be used in the film (e.g. parents, childhood, dating, marriage, sports and hobbies throughout the life, travel snaps, business/ career etc). We promise to take good care of them and will return them promptly.
- Choose the package you would like and thus the cover for the DVD folder/booklet
- Around 1 hour over a cup of tea

Note: There is no filming or recording at this time.

2. The Filming

- We bring the lights, camera and sound recording to you so we need to set it up.
- Alison will talk to you about the filming and we will set you up with the personal microphone and get you comfortable.
- We do some sound and lighting checks and before you know it, you are already chatting with Alison.
- It's all over and we'll take the gear down and be on our way.
- The interview normally takes between one and two hours and we can break if required.

3. Post Production

- It's our turn to do the editing, sound design and all the wonderful magic that goes into making your special film.
- We order the DVD presentation folder/ booklet
- If we need extra photos from what you have given us, we will contact you
- Then, when the film is ready, we encode, transfer and produce a DVD and let you know it's ready.
- We usually ask for a 'first' screening to make sure all the details are correct before we do a 'public' screening with your family and friends and give you the finished product.
